

UCF offers Graduate FAMU Feeder Fellowships to provide financial support to the most outstanding FAMU Feeder Scholars who are admitted to UCF graduate programs. In addition to tuition and health insurance coverage, this fellowship pays a yearly stipend of $10,000 for two years for master's students and $12,000 for four years for doctoral students. Award recipients are selected in spring by the UCF Diversity Fellowship Committee for awards beginning the following fall term. Students may apply by completing a Graduate FAMU Fellowship application (attached or available at graduate.ucf.edu/fellowships/).

Duration of Award:

Maximum of two years of support for master's students.

Maximum of four years of support for doctoral students.

Yearly Fellowship Stipend:

$10,000 master's; $12,000 doctoral (paid in fall and spring semesters)

Tuition Support:

UCF College of Graduate Studies pays the charges for degree program hours during each year of the award. The student is responsible for the payment of fees (health fee, athletic fee, building fee, etc.).

Health Insurance:

A UCF Student Health Insurance Policy through UnitedHealthcare and serviced by Gallagher Student Health & Special Risk will be provided for your individual coverage for the duration of the award.

Eligibility and Selection Criteria:

- Available only to FAMU Feeder Scholars who have completed their FAMU degree within the last three semesters of their entry into a UCF graduate program.
- Admission into a UCF master's, specialist, or doctoral program
- An outstanding GRE score relative to other students admitted into your graduate degree program
